INTRODUCTION - MAJOR UPDATE July 10, 2026

The continuously updated log of The Whistler series is available at https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/13SOxgKkUp_PQUdvMu-RHZEpyLjTY1xeNwpemebriw8/edit?usp=sharing. Hard copies or Adobe Acrobat PDF files should be considered "snapshots in time" of the overall documentation efforts.

The online version is in the form of a spreadsheet workbook and can be downloaded in many formats such as Microsoft Excel and LibreOffice Calc. (Please note that some formatting may not be retained in the download and minor adjustments might be necessary to duplicate the on-screen formatting; the data are unaffected).

These are the individual pages of the workbook, some are new compared to prior versions:

- Whistler by the Numbers
- Main series (through its history as a sustained, then Signal Oil sponsored, then sustained series)
- National series (February 1955 until September 1955 the series was truly national for the first and only time)
- WBBM Chicago (from February 1946 to February 1947, produced with local performers and a studio audience)
- Summer 1946 replacement for The Jack Carson Show (sustaining, for non-Pacific Network stations)
- Household Finance Corporation series (from March 1947 through September 1948 for the CBS stations not part of the Pacific Network)
- All episodes by date
- All episodes by alphabetical order
- Missing episodes by date
- Syndicated TV series (39 episodes first broadcast in September 1954, adapted from radio scripts)

Circulating episodes are identified as network, AFRS, USAFE, and Audio Arts syndications; there are notes for unclear or quirky characteristics, AFRS numbers, and a few programs for which multiple recordings may exist.

Please contact me regarding errors and oversights, and of course additional information about recordings that may not be in the collection that this log represents. (suspenseotr@gmail.com)

The website, "The Whistler Files," <https://sites.google.com/view/the-whistler-files> contains much information about the series and links to many online resources, audio, and video. It is also regularly updated and has links to many online Whistler resources for television, movies, history, and new radio finds.

For background on the series, please view the 2019 presentation from the Mid-Atlantic Nostalgia Convention, available at YouTube <https://youtu.be/0n2UMac5b8Q>. The information in this log is more-up-to-date based on additional research that corrects and enhances some of the information there. The link is also available on "The Whistler Files" website. The video provides a strong foundation for enjoying the series and its history.

Recordings and other items related to this series can be found for viewing, streaming, or download at the Internet Archive by searching for "The Whistler Project."

IMPORTANT ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

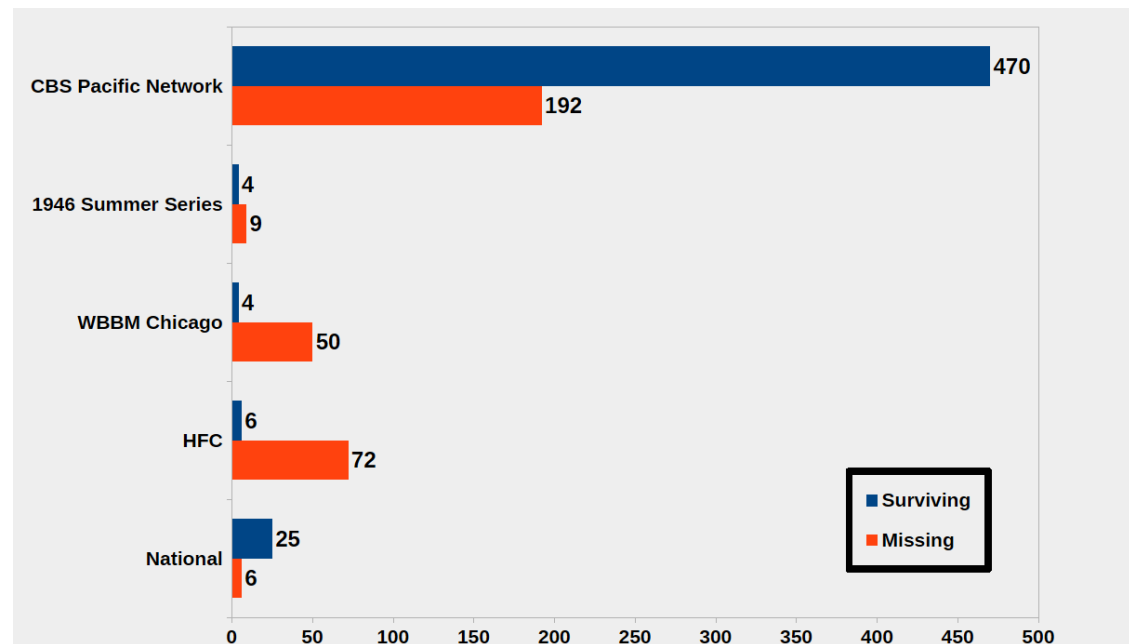

This log is the result of many generous collectors over the years, and its current form originated with the late Mike Harron (RIP, 1945-2025) at the online hobby forum Cobalt Club in 2011; Mike was known as "CompleteDayMan" at Cobalt. He worked to organize the series from multiple collections and we had input from many members at that time. The original logs were started with Jerry Haendiges Vintage Radio Log and David Goldin's RadioGoldindex. These were supplemented by contributions of Cobalt Club members in the 2011 effort and to the present day. Mike Harron was especially insightful in discerning and creating this log format that takes into account the multiple Whistler series and versions, and identifying and correcting problems that earlier collectors encountered. The errors they made years ago, innocently with the best intentions and a lack of resources, were identified, researched, and corrected. Week-by-week newspaper and other research, especially the magazine archives of worldradiohistory.com were used to verify that initial work and filled in the many blank spots in the log. Early researchers did not have access to the kinds of information resources that are now available. Notable contributions were made by Karl Schadow, Don Ramlow, Keith Scott, Martin Grams, Ben Kibler (RIP), Dave Siegel (RIP), Frank Rosin (RIP), Barbara Watkins, John Barker, Ian Dickerson, James Jones, Nick Gomberg, David Goldin, Old Time Radio Researchers, Knights of the Turning Table, Elizabeth Tankersley, Jim Blackson, Doug Hopkinson, Travis Connor, Jim Stephenson, Bob Merritt, Corey Harker, Merrill Mabbs, Nick Palmer, Dave Tysver, David Gibbs, Roger Rittner, Larry Groebe, Patte Rosebank, Cobalt members "jamesdecker" and "kdmarket," Matthew Nunes, Anthony Pemberton, Walden Hughes, Larry Gassman, John Gassman, Ted Davenport, Harvey Tow, Dan Witkowski, Jay Lichtenauer, Don Carr, Mike Hamm, and many others. Thanks are especially due to the Thousand Oaks Library Foundation where a large proportion of the original scripts were maintained, especially to Cynthia Thomas and Jeanette Berard, who assisted and encouraged researcher efforts in insightful and proactive ways in the years the script collection was under their care. The collection is now at the University of California - Santa Barbara, and the assistance of Raul Pizano is greatly appreciated. There is still more work to be done, but great progress has been made in the past seven years, especially.

In addition to the documentation and the general sharing of recordings, The Whistler Project had a fortuitous turn in access to upgraded audio starting in late 2020 with the acquisitions of the collections of pioneer collector Joe Hehn (RIP) and other pioneer and influential collectors from the 1970s and 1980s shortly thereafter. The OTRR transfer volunteers worked diligently to convert reels from the Don Aston (RIP), Jerry Haendiges, Florida collections, California collections, Ron Bowser (RIP), Barrett Benson (RIP), John Dunning (RIP) and numerous others. Many thanks to the families of those collectors who passed away whose collections were entrusted to us, and special thanks to those collectors whose trust as intermediaries with family members made it possible. Those generous contributions of recordings and the generous devotion of the volunteers that has made the 2026 sound upgrades of The Whistler and its preservation lossless FLAC format possible. for their recordings and guidance.

Contact me at suspenseotr@gmail.com for further details if required. It is important to the hobby and the history of radio that research efforts be available to as many collectors, fans, and researchers as possible. We enjoy radio recordings today because of the anonymous and generous efforts of collectors of decades ago. It is important that as many people as possible continue that tradition and continuously add to the knowledge about this era. Not everyone has experience in researching, but anyone can start, especially by listening to and documenting the programs. Please join in those efforts that are often more valuable than monetary contributions by participating in the Cobalt Club, Old Time Radio Researchers, and numerous other radio-focused clubs and forums.

The episode is noted as from November 1942, and it has been determined that it is 1942-11-22 "The Other Woman." The Whistler says that the writer "Wilson" did it, but in-joke reference is that it actually refers to series developer J. Donald Wilson, and author of both episodes; the title was used again with a different storyline on 1947-03-31. This 1943 episode involves a plane crash.

From the way the rest of this file is edited, this may be from an AFRS production tape. The only mention of Signal is at the very end and the recording is clipped there. It might not have been completely edited prior to adding AFRS announcements. There are no Signal commercial announcements in the body of the program, but this slipped through in AFRS production up to this step. This means the recording is not a true full network recording, but is characterized as such because of that slight Signal mention at the end.

From 1955-02-24 to the end of the series, The Whistler became a truly national program for the first time. On the 1955-02-22 episode of Mr. Keen, Tracer of Lost Persons , the announcement was made: " Don't forget, mystery fans: the man who walks by night, The Whistler, will be heard coast to coast beginning this Thursday night on CBS Radio. Long a familiar figure in eerie mysteries heard by west coast fans, The Whistler will be yours to listen to Thursday nights on most of the same stations beginning this week. A shady private investigator is double-crossed by his attractive, but just as shady Girl Friday, leading to a story The Whistler believes you'll find packed with intriguing angles. Thursday night at the star's address. " The program, however, would not be heard on the same night throughout the country. It was heard on a sustained basis on Thursday nights except for the CBS Pacific Network. Those stations broadcast the episodes on Sundays, sponsored by Rinso. At this date, no Pacific Network recordings have survived. Only one non-Pacific network recording has survived , and that is a low quality network aircheck. See the note below about the importance of Armed Forces Radio airchecks in the preservation of this series.

55-09-22	55-09-25	693	NATL-31	Element X						this is the final national episode; it is believed possible that this and the prior show may not have been broadcast on the Pacific Network, making their final episode 55-09-11 Two Simple People; newspaper timetables from San Francisco and Los Angeles areas, however, still listed the series as being broadcast there on these dates (newspaper timetables in this era were not always as reliable as they were in earlier radio years).
IMPORTANT NOTE: Many of the recordings of this period are airchecks from an Armed Forces Radio station in Europe. Pioneer classic radio hobbyists sometimes hired or covered the costs of people who recorded programs off the air. Some were service personnel stationed there or family members. The broadcasts were sponsored by USAFE (United States Armed Forces in Europe) and usually promoted USAFI (United States Armed Forces Institute), an educational initiatives that offered classes, allowed service personnel to earn the General Equivalency Diplomas (GED) that certified completion of high school, and to take college examinations. Some of the Armed Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRS or AFRTS) are available from disc transfers and have superior and richer sound. Many of the other AFRS recordings are also airchecks from either Europe or Asia. Aircheck recordings can suffer from constrained audio range, noise common to AM stations, station drift (including faint audio from an adjacent station), and also characteristics of consumer tape recording equipment of that time, such as background electrical noise, wow and flutter, and speed variation. Recording tape was expensive at that time, and cheaper recording tapes added their own problems of background hiss and signal loss. The cost of tape was also a factor that encouraged recordists to eliminate "commercials" and other announcements from the recordings. This allowed them to put more episodes on a reel of tape. Sometimes those edits can be "choppy" or inexact. While many of the recordings have a defect and sometimes multiple ones, they are cherished by classic radio enthusiasts because they are often the only recordings of particular shows that have survived from this period. Until discs of the network series started to become available in the 1970s and 1980s, these recordings comprised the bulk of Whistler episodes collectors had access to in the mid-to-late 1960s.

The agreement with CBS that allowed the regional WBBM series included a stipulation that the broadcasts had to be discontinued if CBS found a sponsor for the non-Pacific affiliates. They did, signing Household Finance Corporation as that sponsor. Peter Hand Brewery and WBBM were pleased with the result of their Whistler collaboration, and started a new series, "The Echo," starring Everett Clarke. It was similar in many aspects to The Whistler, but lasted only 17 weeks. No recordings or scripts have been found.

Everett Clarke also starred in an experimental television broadcast on WBKB-TV Chicago on 1948-06-27; the script used was Lucky Night adapted from the radio script originally performed with Clarke on WBBM on 1946-05-12

THE TRAGIC DEATH OF EVERETT CLARKE

This book (Keir Graff, Chicago's Fine Arts Building: Music, Magic, and Murder) has background on Everett Clarke's 1980 murder <https://www.keirgraff.com/chicago-s-fine-arts-building>
<https://classicchicagomagazine.com/chicagos-fine-arts-building-music-magic-and-murder/>

"It is shocking how many people have died in the building, which seems to have more than its share of tragedies," Graff said. "The most famous was the murder of Everett Clarke, a star from the golden age of radio in the 1930s and 1940s. His acting career declined as TV took over, so he took a studio on the 10th floor where he became a much-loved acting teacher. "On September 9, 1980, his next-door neighbor heard a voice call out 'No, Paul! God, no, Paul!' but she assumed Clarke and a student were acting out a scene. When Clarke didn't come home, an elevator operator opened the studio door, which had been locked from the inside. Clarke had been stabbed to death with scissors and the murderer had escaped through the window. Police were able to identify the killer as Paul DeWitt, a student of Clarke's who'd suffered a mental breakdown."

The 1980-09-13 Chicago Tribune reported the De Wit was 21, and was indicted for the murder. He was released to his parents on a $500,000 bond (which required parents to post 10% of that). A year later, the case went to trial, and the Tribune reported on 1981-09-23 that his attorney urged jurors to consider an insanity defence. She explained that he had a history of behavioral problems, and in the months up to the murder he developed paranoid schizophrenia. The prosecutors argued otherwise. On October 1, 1981, jurors found DeWit guilty, but mentally ill. They deliberated for six hours. The Tribune report described the proceedings as "a battle of psychiatrists." His mother explained that De Wit believed Clarke was a member of the Mafia "who wanted to kill him and destroy his career." Years later, a historical crime story in the Newfoundland Western Star newspaper, February 16, 2010 edition stated that the jury was "convinced that De Wit, high on drugs, hadn't taken Everett's criticism of his acting well and that an argument had turned into bloody murder. They found him guilty. He was sentenced to 22 years imprisonment. Early in 1991, Paul De Wit was paroled after serving over 10 years in prison." Genealogical research indicated he died in 2004 in California.

46-07-03	SUM46-1	Affair at Stoney Ridge			Miami FL News, Durham Sun, and other newspapers identify first national episode as "Solid Citizen" with plotline "The Whistler delves into the motives which impel a manager of an estate to propose marriage to his wealthy client"; "Affair at Stoney Ridge" was the WBBM script production of the prior Sunday and the script was used in this premiere non-Pacific broadcast and produced in Hollywood; Variety of 1946-07-10 reviewed the first broadcast of this Carson-replacement series. That affirms it was "Affair at Stoney Ridge" that was broadcast and not "Solid Citizen" The Frank and Anne Hummert papers at the University of Wyoming Archives West have the title as two words, "Trigger Man" "Panic" is teased as next episode Anderson SC Independent lists cast as Kent Buckley and Leora Moffat; "[Couple] who might have found the security they sought at sea but for the macabre baggage in the ship's hold" "Death Wears a White Robe" is teased as the next episode. Cast: Bea Benaderet (Evelyn), Elliott Lewis (Arnold Stanton); the actors playing Sergeant Cook and Mr. Haverhill are not known; actresses playing Miss Roberts and Mrs. Bronson are not identified at this time, but one role may be doubled by Benadaret; No announcement of the next episode title. Listeners are encouraged to listen next week when "The Whistler will return with another strange story"; Writers Frank C. Burt and Robert Libott reused this script a year later in an abridged format for the 15-minute series The Unexpected on 1947-07-11 retitled as Mercy Killing Script title not used in Pacific series, but the script was. This script by Cochran was used before for Signal on 1945-08-20 as X Marks the Murderer. It was also used on Suspense 1961-09-24 with the title The Man in the Fog.

Summer 1946 replacement series for The Jack Carson Show			Existing Recordings		NOTES
Date	Episode	Title	Network	AFRS

The Whistler finally had broadcasts outside the CBS Pacific Network with this summer replacement series. While The Jack Carson Show was sponsored by Campbell Soups, this 13-week Whistler run was on a sustaining basis without a sponsor. Frank Goss is the announcer in place of Marvin Miller's typical duties for the surviving episodes. The initial publicity indicated that Miller would be on the series, but the review of the first episode in Variety lists Bob Lemond as the announcer for that episode.

WBBM in Chicago was doing its own Whistler productions with Everett Clarke. They were sponsored by Meister Brau beer (Peter Hand Brewery) and had live audiences. WBBM did not carry this Summer series. That does not mean WBBM listeners could not hear it on other stations. It is listed in newspaper timetables for CBS affiliates in Wisconsin, Iowa, and other areas. If a listener lived within range of WBBM (and its Chicago cast productions), they were getting the Whistler 2x a week for a while that summer. They would hear it once on WBBM, and whatever CBS affiliate they might have had access to in the wider geography if AM reception conditions allowed the signal to be picked up. All productions were from Hollywood. They were all broadcast live from scripts used on the Pacific Network and sometimes had the same casts.

The fifth Whistler movie, Mysterious Intruder, was in national release during the Summer of 1946. The sixth movie, The Secret of the Whistler would be released in November 1946. The year 1946 began a three-year period when the character's franchise had its broadest market reach.
